

UK Student Engagement and Attendance Policy

1. This document describes how Regent College London monitors the attendance and engagement of UK students with their studies, and what the College may do if a UK student does not attend or engage.
2. The primary audiences for this document are:
 - a. UK students;
 - b. College staff who support students; and,
 - c. College staff who are responsible for making decisions about student absence and withdrawal.
3. Throughout this document, 'we' or 'us' refers to the College and 'you' to the student.

Who does this procedure apply to?

4. This document applies to all students who are resident in the UK. It does not apply to international students sponsored by the College (please see the International Student Attendance and Engagement Policy).

Introduction

5. The College is committed to supporting you to achieve the award you are aiming for.
6. There is a strong link between attendance, engagement and achievement; if you attend teaching sessions and engage in independent study outside these sessions, you will maximise your chances of success. If you miss teaching sessions and/or do not engage in independent study, your chances of achieving the award you are aiming for will diminish.
7. We are also responsible to our funders and awarding bodies for making sure you are attending and engaging with your studies. We are obliged to withdraw students who have stopped attending and engaging.
8. Therefore, we expect you to sign an attendance agreement when you enrol with us, and we will monitor your attendance and engagement throughout your programme. We will work with you to help you resolve any issues that may impact on your attendance and engagement. In the interest of equality, we monitor all students in the same way.

Our expectations of you

9. We expect you to attend all the teaching sessions for your programme according to the delivery mode you registered for¹. 'Teaching sessions' include (but not are limited to) lectures, seminars, tutorials, workshops, work placements and field trips.

¹ Unless you have an approved Support Plan with a different attendance requirement.

10. Attending according to the delivery mode means that if the module is taught face-to-face, then you should attend face-to-face (on campus), and if the module is taught online then you should attend online. If you are not sure about the way you are expected to attend, please ask your tutor.
11. If you attend in a different mode (for example, if you attend online when you are expected to attend face-to-face), you will be marked as absent unless your absence is authorised (see below).
12. You are expected to arrive on time for teaching sessions (whether on campus or online) and stay for the whole session. You should have your camera on during online sessions.
13. You must bring with you the equipment you need to engage in your teaching session effectively. Normally, this means bringing a laptop computer or similar.
14. Any abuse by students of the expectation to attend (e.g., by having someone else mark a student as present) is a disciplinary offence subject to action under the Student Disciplinary Procedure.
15. You are also expected to complete and submit all written assignments, practical or other coursework on time, and attend any examinations.

If you are unable to attend a teaching session

16. If you are unable to attend a teaching session, you should inform an Attendance Officer (attendance@regentcollegelondon.com) at the earliest opportunity and complete the Absence Form. There are examples of what we regard as acceptable and unacceptable reasons for absence in appendix A.
17. You may self-certify absences from up to four teaching sessions in any one semester. Where you are absent from more than four sessions, you should submit independent, third-party evidence (e.g., a doctor's note) to explain your absence.
18. If there is an acceptable reason for your absence (and, if the absence is your fifth or more, you submit evidence for it) the absence will be authorised and not counted in your attendance record.
19. If there is not an acceptable reason for your absence (and/or, if the absence is your fifth or more, you do not submit evidence for it), the absence will be unauthorised and count towards your attendance record as described below.
20. If you have a long-term condition or situation that is preventing you from attending, you should seek support from Student Services (studentservices@rcl.ac.uk). We may refer your case to the Fitness to Study Policy or to the Inclusion Policy and Procedure.

Maximum duration of absence

21. The maximum duration of absence we will approve (subject to your submitting evidence, as described above) is normally four consecutive weeks. If you are absent for more than four consecutive weeks – including if you are absent from face-to-face teaching sessions for more than four consecutive weeks (if the delivery mode for your programme includes face-to-face sessions) – we may refer your case to the Fitness to Study Policy or escalate it to the Attendance and Absence Panel as described below. Periods of consecutive absence can span more than one semester or level.

22. You should ask for authorisation for long absences at the earliest opportunity and preferably before the absence begins. We will only approve requests made after the absence has ended if you can show us that you could not ask beforehand (for example, due to serious illness or injury).

23. We will take previous absences into account, and the reasons for those absences, when considering whether we can authorise absences.

If you are unable to submit coursework or attend an examination

24. If you are unable to submit coursework or attend an examination, you may be able to secure an extension to a deadline or the deferral of an examination under the College's Mitigating Circumstances Procedure or the procedure specified by your awarding body. If you are not sure which procedure applies to your programme, please ask your lecturer or Customer Support Officer.

What we do if you have unauthorised absences

25. The table below describes the escalation process for unauthorised absences.

If you...	You will receive...
Have four unauthorised absences in a semester...	A first warning email from your CSO asking you: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • why you have been absent • to resume attending your scheduled sessions.
Have eight unauthorised absences in a semester...	A second warning email inviting you to meet with your CSO and Attendance Officer to find out if the College can do anything to help you resume attending.
Have twelve unauthorised absences in a semester...	A third warning email inviting you to a meeting with your CSO, Attendance Officer, and Senior Lecturer (Academic Support).

26. Regardless of who contacts you about your attendance, you must follow the instructions provided as failure to engage in this process and to attend any meetings arranged by us may result in the escalation of your case to the Attendance and Absence Panel. If you do not improve your attendance to a sufficient standard (i.e., regular, and consistent), then your case may be escalated to the Attendance and Absence Panel.

Attendance Panel and withdrawals

27. If, after you receive a third warning email, you fail to engage in the meeting organised by your Customer Service Officer, or if you are absent for more than four weeks, then your case will be escalated to the Attendance and Absence Panel. Your case will also be escalated if you engage in the meeting organised by your Customer Service Officer, but your attendance does not improve (i.e., you have more unauthorised absences).

28. The Attendance and Absence Panel will consider various information about your attendance and engagement, such as your submission record, and decide on the appropriate action. The decision may be a suspension of studies, or, in cases of severe non-attendance and non-engagement (including non-submission of assessments), withdrawal from the College, or some other action. If you are suspended or withdrawn our Registry team will notify you in writing.

29. Students who are reinstated after a suspension for non-engagement under this policy will; have their engagement closely monitored and be considered for further action if their attendance does not meet our expectations within the first two weeks of reinstatement.

Appeals

30. You may appeal a decision of an Attendance and Absence Panel to suspend or withdraw you from the College under Part F of the College's Consolidated Student Appeals Procedure.
